

Resource Directory of Incentives for NCQA Recognition

The Resource Directory of Incentives for NCQA Recognition links clinicians to local financial and non-financial resources that support Recognition. The directory includes a list of public, private and multi-payer initiatives, by state, that support a variety of NCQA Recognition programs including: Patient Centered Medical Home (PCMH), Patient Centered Specialty Practice (PCSP), Patient Centered Connected Care (PCCC), Diabetes Recognition Program (DRP), and Heart and Stroke Recognition Program (HSRP).

NCQA PCMH Recognition. NCQA PCMH Recognition is the most widely-used way to transform primary care practices into medical homes. More than 12,000 practices (with more than 60,000 clinicians) are recognized - about 18 percent of all primary care clinicians. In 2015, NCQA initiated a process to revamp the PCMH requirements and recognition process called Recognition Redesign. The new 2017 PCMH Standards focus on identifying best practices and core activities, signaling that a primary care practice functions as a medical home. Additionally, the new standards promote measurement and improvement at the clinician and practice level. It makes the program more manageable as it continues to concentrate on performance and quality improvement. It also reduces paperwork and increases practice interaction with NCQA.

Benefits for clinicians:

- Earn higher reimbursement. More than 50 payers nationwide offer enhanced reimbursement for recognized clinicians or support for practices to become recognized.
- Succeed in MACRA. Clinicians in NCQA-Recognized PCMHs/PCSPs automatically earn full credit in the MIPS Improvement Activities category, and are likely to do well in other MIPS categories.
- Earn Maintenance of Certification (MOC) credits. Several medical boards award clinicians in NCQA-recognized practices Maintenance of Certification (MOC) credits, reducing the burden on clinicians to take on additional activities.
- Focus on patient care. The PCMH model ensures that team members operate at the highest level of their knowledge, skills, abilities and license, within their assigned roles and responsibilities.

Partners in Quality. The directory also highlights organizations and initiatives that are designated NCQA Partners in Quality (PIQ). The PIQ program is available for organizations and initiatives that provide a specific set of resources and services that support practices in pursuit of practice transformation. Entities designated as NCQA Partners in Quality receive an application discount code to offer participating practices.

Learn More. To share updates or learn about the PIQ program, please contact Leah (Kaufman@ncqa.org) or Jennifer (Zutz@ncqa.org).
